Other workforce partners, such as Urban League of Greater Cleveland and Towards Employment, have also seen very positive results through their efforts.

Bike path news

In response to public remarks from Bike Cleveland and the community the originally proposed 10' wide multipurpose path has been expanded to 14' to accommodate two-way bike traffic. There is also a sidewalk for pedestrians. There will continue to be a 7' tree lawn separating the bike/pedestrian path from traffic.

Calling all artists!

Cleveland Neighborhood Progress will fund innovative and imaginative arts-based projects that will engage residents of the Opportunity

Corridor neighborhoods. The intent is to provide a structure and venue through which Cleveland residents can cultivate, curate, and broadcast stories of their neighborhoods: past, present and future.
